LUTYENS COLLECTION

Our Lutyens Collection is named after the famous architect Sir Edwin Lutyens, who was born in London in 1869. He designed the Lutyens Collection for the garden at Little Thakeham near Storrington, West Sussex. The rhythmical symmetry of the pieces is typical of Lutyens' love of form. You will see this design in many parks around the globe.

PEANUT COLLECTION

Some people think it resembles a peanut and others think a banana.

We just think it's one of the most elegant collections we carry.

The Peanut Collection consists of 2 size benches, a chair and a coffee table to complete your setting.

One of the heaviest collections we produce and very suitable for commercial use.

CHIPPENDALE COLLECTION

Our classic Chippendale Collection is designed by the English master woodworker Thomas Chippendale. He lived in London and in 1754 he published his masterful collection "Gentlemen and Cabinet Makers Director", a compilation of fashionable English furniture design. This work is Chippendale's enduring legacy.

CUSHIONS

To optimize your comfort while enjoying your Chic Teak® furniture, we offer cushions for our whole Outdoor Collection.

The cushions covers are made from 100% cotton and have zippers for easy cleaning of your covers.

Every cushion is made for an exact fit. Our Steamer cushion and the cushion for our Bahama Pool Lounger come with a complimentary headrest.

We recommend treating your cushions with 3M Scotchguard® when used outdoors.

TAKING CARE OF YOUR CHIC TEAK® OUTDOOR FURNITURE

Teak is a product of natural beauty and as such, no two examples are ever exactly the same. The unique blend of grain and coloring can vary from light to dark brown.

On exposure to natural light any color variations will steadily even out.

With time teak will gradually turn a silver gray, which we believe gives that final complement to our designs and creates an easy harmony within a natural environment.

Once teakwood has weathered the color will be enhanced by an annual scrub with soapy water to remove accumulated dirt. Due to the unique properties of teakwood your furniture will need no other care or treatment and will last a long time. Small surface cracks may appear, this is a characteristic of all timbers and will not effect the strength or durability of the furniture. This is due to the changes in seasons and the wood releasing or drawing in moisture from the atmosphere.

Treating teakwood with teak oil or other preservatives is not needed to protect teakwood and will not extend the life of your furniture, its use is purely cosmetic. We do not recommend oiling your furniture because it creates unnecessary maintenance, but, should you prefer to retain its original color we offer the following as a guide to the best results.

Teak oil should be applied before the furniture begins to weather and change color. Ensure the furniture is dry and free of any dust or dirt and apply only one light coat of oil with a clean cloth or brush, wiping off any surplus. Teak oil should not be applied over accumulated oil or dirt as the result will be dark and the furniture will eventually blacken. If necessary, remove previous oil or dirt by vigorous scrubbing or use of a pressure hose. Re-oiling annually should be sufficient.
